Labor and Management Agree on Coal Contract

Agreement Covers Most Of Soft Coal Industry; Contract is for 2 Years

Immediate Re-opening of Mines Remains Indefinite as Southern Operators Spurn Accord

NEW YORK, April 16. (AP)—Labor and management today agreed upon a new two-year labor contract for most of the country's defense-vital soft coal industry, but immediate reopening of the paralyzed mines remained indefinite because Southern coal operators still spurned the accord.

Chief Federal Conciliator John R. Steelman indicated, however, that if the contract did not lead to immediate industry-wide agreement it would result in resumption of a major portion of bituminous production within a week.

Mines Closed 15 Days
After more than a month's negotiations and a sixteen-day work stoppage in ninety per cent of the nation's mines, the United Mine Workers of America (U. M. W.) and Northern Appalachian operators announced the birth of the contract.

They proposed it for the entire eight-state Appalachian area which produced seventy per cent of the nation's 450,000,000 tons annual production and which customarily sets wage and condition standards for the country as a whole.

Although negotiators withheld details of the contract until certain editing formalities could be completed at a 11 a. m. session tomorrow, it has been common knowledge that the contract would call for a flat $7 a day basic wage for the 330,000 Appalachian miners, raising wages $1 a day in the North and $1.40 in the South, thus eliminating a forty-cent differential which the Southern operators have long enjoyed.

It was this elimination that prompted operators from Southern West Virginia, Eastern Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia to bolt the joint conference last week and establish their own bargaining organization in Washington.

Effective Date Uncertain
As soon as the contract was announced, U. M. W. Chairman John L. Lewis served notice that the government should insist that the Southern group adhere to the contract. He then declared that Northern miners would not be inclined to return to the mines if their Southern brothers had to "continue to starve."

Therefore, Lewis continued, the

Nazi Bombers Create Havoc In Belfast

IRELAND, Northern Ireland, April 16.—Between 200 and 300 German bombers blasted a path of havoc across Loyalist North Ireland last night in a raid described as intense as any suffered by British Midland ports.

Hundreds of homes in the working class area of this city of over 400,000 population were destroyed and considerable loss of life here and in surrounding smaller towns was reported.

Rescue workers digging into the wreckage of bomb shelters, homes, two churches, a moving picture theater and library here indicated casualties were heavy.

During the four-hour raid hundreds of incendiary and explosive bombs were dropped, and physicians and nurses removed patients from a hospital wing and nurses' home struck by bombs. Injured patients were treated as more missiles fell about them.

The sweep of the raiders was likened to that of a tornado. In outlying districts, not even isolated farms escaped and in one large area of Belfast, a shipbuilding and manufacturing center, not a single window remained unbroken.

Many persons were killed when a bomb struck a shelter. Numerous fires sprung up but they were reported curbed by scores of firemen, with the help of apparatus sent from Dublin, capital of neighboring Eire.

Commenting on the morale of Belfast after the attack, a communiqué said: "The recruiting officers are besieged this morning."

London Suffers Heaviest Raid Of War, British Reports Assert

Nazi Dive-Bombers Swoop Down on City for Hours Overnight in Seemingly Endless Chain

LONDON, April 17.—(Thursday)—German bombers diving low in a steady procession through fierce anti-aircraft fire smashed at London last night and early today for their heaviest raid of the war on the capital.

Stick after stick of heavy explosive bombs whistled and crashed into buildings and streets of the sleepless city, and casualties and damage were expected to be heavy.

At 4:22 a. m. London time, (10:22 p. m. E.S.T.) the Associated Press office messaged that there was a temporary delay in communications, recalling a similar interruption during the devastating attack last Dec. 29, when the Associated Press building was destroyed by fire.

Earlier, in New York both the National Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia Broadcasting System reported buildings housing their offices had been struck.

The German raid, in a broadcast heard by CBS, quoted German pilots saying on return to their bases that the raid had "excellent results." Great fires were said to be raging in the Thames dockside.

Seasoned observers agreed that this was the heaviest blow yet loosed on London.

A certain anti-aircraft fire arched across the starlit skies and bagged at least one bomber, which burst with an eerie flash and fell in bits.

Casualties May Be Heavy
Casualties were not announced but it was feared they might be heavy.

The raiders dived low to loose their bombs and scurried off, followed by others in procession that kept coming over into the early morning hours.

It was the first big assault on London since the British made their heaviest raid on Berlin April 9, after which the German press published threats that the Nazis would retaliate—"a hundred-fold."

Some observers compared this new destruction with that of last Dec. 29 when incendiaries rained fire and incredible damage on the ancient "City of London," the financial district.

For the first time in months hotel lobbies were crowded with guests in night-dress, unable to sleep in the din of battle.

The night was clear and starlit, and the British themselves took advantage of the clear sky.

Lowering of Age Limit for Draftees Objected to by House Group Leader

WASHINGTON, April 16. (AP)—Representative Paddis (D-Pa.), acting as spokesman for the House Military committee chairman, said today there would be "the strongest opposition" within the committee to any lowering of the age limit for draftees, now 21 to 35.

President Roosevelt at his press conference yesterday indicated that the matter of changing the limit might be changed, but indicated the administration would prefer not to so below 21.

Paddis was designated by Chairman May (D-KY.) to inform newsmen of what both men described as an "informal" committee discussion of the subject.

Opposition Is Strong
"Practically every one present" expressed opposition to a change, Paddis said, adding that nearly the entire membership of the twenty-seven-man committee was present.

Paddis said placing the lower age limit at 18 was discussed last year

Roosevelt May Be Asked To Settle Soft-Coal Tieup

How President Will Intervene Is in Doubt, Rep. Kee, W. Va., Says

WASHINGTON, April 16. (AP)—Presidential intervention in an effort to put the nation's half million coal miners back to work was sought today, while Army Ordnance officers reported that steel production was declining because of lack of fuel.

"We can do nothing more in negotiations," Southern operators who booted the Appalachian wage conference in New York told representatives in congress from the half-dozen Southern coal states.

A tentative agreement, reached by the negotiators in New York today, was described by the Southern group tonight as a "deliberate frame-up" designed to "impose a contract on us."

Say Agreement Is Frameup
L. T. Putnam of West Virginia, heading the Southern operators, told a press conference "we just won't fall for it—we charge this is a deliberate frame-up to keep us away from the Mediation board."

Putnam asserted the New York agreement had nothing to do with the Southern group and that the Northern operators, "even if in agreement, can't supply sufficient coal to prevent such a shortage in the next week or ten days as will become extremely serious."

With mines tied up since negotiations started April 1 on wage contracts for the next two years, rapidly diminishing stocks have forced curtailment of steel mill operations. Hasty surveys by the Ordnance corps showed that only in the Birmingham (Ala.) steel district was a large supply of coal available.

Willkie Joins Firm of Lawyers

Succeeds Former Governor of New York as Senior Partner

NEW YORK, April 16. (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie announced today that he has become a member of the firm of Miller, Owen, Otis & Bailey which will continue the general practice of law under the name of Willkie, Owen, Otis & Bailey.

Nathan L. Miller, former governor of New York, whom Willkie succeeds as senior partner, will continue as counsel to the firm. Willkie, for the most part, will engage in trial work and advocacy.

The 1940 Republican presidential candidate said he expected to do occasional writing and speaking on public questions involving principle and belief.

Willkie said he planned to leave early next week for a vacation trip to his Indiana farm and return to New York to enter upon his new work about May 5.

Associates said that 280,000 pieces of mail had been answered from Willkie's personal headquarters since the election and that letters still come in at the rate of several hundred a day. Invitations to speak at various functions average between 75 and 100 a day.

Precautionary Plans Are Made by Government To House 800,000 Men

Action Is Taken Just in Case Men Are Needed, War Department Official Tells Committee

WASHINGTON, April 16. (AP)—Precautionary plans for housing 800,000 additional troops, just in case they should be needed, were revealed today by Robert P. Patterson, the undersecretary of war, with a disclosure that surveys for twenty-eight new cantonment sites had begun.

He made these statements in testimony before the Senate Defense Investigating committee, while Secretary of the Navy Knox was telling the House Naval committee that efforts to legislate on defense labor disputes should be confined to statutes intended to bring both sides to the conference table.

Making Preparation
Patterson said that with $15,000,000 recently made available, engineers had been or would be retained to make the cantonment surveys. He was emphatic in telling reporters, however, that no plans for calling up 800,000 additional men had been made and that the measures being taken were entirely precautionary.

British Strike Lightning Blow Against Axis Army in Libya

Royal Navy Backs Up Move with Bombardment from Close Inshore West of Salum

CAIRO, EGYPT, April 16.—A lightning-like British blow at the German-Italian rear in Fort Capuzzo and hand-to-hand fighting just across the border in the Egyptian villages of Salum, both backed up by guns of the Royal Navy, were announced by the British today with intimations that these desert outposts might have been wrested from the Axis.

Military circles expressed the view that the Nazi-Fascist blitzkrieg along the narrow strip between the desert and the sea has about spent its force—at least for the moment.

Simultaneously, British headquarters announced that the Duke of Aosta, Italian Viceroy of Ethiopia, had sent an envoy by plane to Diredawa. It was not known here whether he sought to negotiate for the surrender of the 40,000 Italian and 36,000 native troops still at large in the East African wilderness or to arrange for the withdrawal of Italian women and children.

Navy Bombs Sea Road
The Admiralty announced the Germans and Italians were being "constantly and successfully" bombarded from the sea, particularly west of Salum where the road is exposed atop the pinnacles.

A curio of war was the announced destruction by naval cannon of at least five Axis planes perched at El Gazala airport, west of Tobruk. The RAF said it destroyed four German planes at Port Capuzzo and another at Derna.

A British ministry of information announcement, first made public in London, said "in Libya our forces have successfully attacked the rear of the enemy position in the Capuzzo area, where enemy vehicles were shelled and set on fire."

Military sources here, however, said the much-battered Italian front facing the Egyptian frontier had changed hands time after time before the British grabbed it. (It was not made clear who holds it at the moment.)

(A German high command statement, apparently referring to the same action, said a thrust at Salum by British armored vehicles supported by warships was repulsed. This implied German occupation of Salum.)

Axis Drive Slackens
A British communiqué said vigorous patrol action cost the Germans and Italians losses in men and vehicles and resulted in capture of some prisoners at Salum.

British military circles remarked that the German advance elements had been at the Libyan-Egyptian border for three or four days without showing signs of attempting to progress farther east.

Also supporting the British view that the desert blitzkrieg has eased off, they said there had been no new attack on Tobruk, 80 miles inland Libya, where a British garrison (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Big Serb Army Has Surrendered Germans Assert
Troops Lay Down Arms in Historic Sarajevo, Nazi Sources Say

BERLIN, April 17.—(Thursday)—German troops collided with the British today south of Mount Olympus, major eastern Greek defense bastion, as the high command reported that the entire Serbian Second Army had put down its arms at Sarajevo, Yugoslavia.

Military headquarters gave few details of the ensuing battle but the version here was that the withdrawing British were pushed so hard they were obliged to turn and make a stand.

What started as a mere rearguard action may develop into a great engagement, it was said.

Ahead of the German ground forces was the airforce, bombing the airports of Larisa and Trikkala to the west, and the seaports where the Germans said British transports were ready to evacuate the British.

Larisa is about 100 miles straight south of the Yugoslav border.

The Germans said they smashed 22 airplanes on the ground and an additional 17 were shot down in aerial combat over narrowing Greek territory.

Official Berlin Sources Abandon Accusations of British Withdrawal from Grecian Front

ATHENS, April 17.—(Thursday)—Two German columns smashing through the heart of the Central Greek-British front threatened today to outflank the strong Allied entrenchments thrown up on the slopes of famed Mount Olympus on the Eastern coast.

The Greek high command communiqué disclosed that one column entered the upper valley of the Aliakmon river in the region of Grevena, sixty miles South of the Yugoslav frontier in a drive toward Kalabaka which is the entrance to the Plains of Thessaly.

The other column plunging Southward from the Kozane plateau to the East also crossed the Aliakmon river. This drive was toward the Western slopes of Mount Olympus which forms the Eastern anchor of the Allied defense line. Obviously this Eastern column intended to skirt Mount Olympus and encircle its fiercely fighting defenders.

Kalabaka is another thirty miles South from Grevena.

The Greek command attributed the advance to the German force which penetrated the upper valley of the Aliakmon river on the West.

Kalabaka is the Northern railroad of a line running to Trikkala and connecting with Larisa, Athens and the main Greek rail network.

Farther East, the Greek command said, the Germans had crossed to the South bank of the Aliakmon from the Heights of Kazane. This is about fifteen miles South of the town of Kozane. The Aliakmon describes a sharp "V" across the Greek peninsula before emptying into Salonica bay.

Italians Take Kiasma
South of the Albanian town of Corizza (Korizza), the Italians were acknowledged to have taken the gorge of Kiasma Marit (apparently on the Devol river).

The Athens radio, which broadcast the communiqué, said the information "adds nothing new," though it admitted that "it pre-

Entire Axis Convoy Sunk, British Assert

LONDON, April 16.—An entire convoy of three Axis destroyers and five cargo ships bound for Africa with troops, munitions and mechanized equipment was blown up and sunk between Sicily and Tripoli by a British Mediterranean squadron last night at the cost of one British destroyer, the admiralty announced tonight.

Disclosure of the annihilation—so described—followed announcement that the Mediterranean fleet is continually bombarding the German and Italian troops, airports and forts along the Libyan shore in support of the hard-fighting Imperial desert armies.

Thus the British Mediterranean fleet, with units freed at length from convoy service to Greece, returned to the job of blocking Axis supply lanes to Africa. It is generally believed that German mechanized forces reached Tripoli for their drive into Egypt largely because the British fleet was engaged in protecting the transport of Imperial troops from Africa to Greece.

Two of the sunk ships were of about 5,000 tons each, heavily laden with motor transports, the admiralty said; two others of 3,000 tons each, "probably transports," were blown up; and the fifth, a 4,000-ton ammunition ship, blew up with a terrific explosion.

One Italian destroyer was identified as the 1,628-ton Luca Tarigo. The other two were said to be smaller but were not mentioned by name.

Whether the eight vessels were destroyed by gunfire or torpedoes was not specified.

The admiralty said that "during this successful operation" the British destroyer Mohawk, 1,870 tons, was hit by torpedoes and sank, but that the majority of the crew (normally 190 men) had been rescued.

Censorship Is Seen as Possibility As Knox Asks Press 'Co-operation'

WASHINGTON, April 16. (AP)—Secretary Knox pictured censorship as a possibility, if necessary, in a new plea today for press secrecy concerning movements of damaged British warships to American ports for repairs.

Knox hinted cryptically at the same time that oversight of some kind already was being exercised on international communications as a part of the efforts to aid Great Britain.

The censorship possibility was mentioned at a press conference discussion of his request to withhold news about arrival of such ships as the damaged battleship Malaya which put into New York harbor on April 6.

"The failure of a few in the press to co-operate might bring about a situation which all decent newspapersmen, including myself, want to avoid," Knox said. "I don't want censorship. Such incidents help to promote the possibility."

The hint of an existing check on international communications came in response to a question whether the Malaya might not have readily been seen by German representatives in New York and the information telephoned to Berlin.

"If any one had called Berlin, I think it would be known but I am not going to talk about that," Knox said.

Declining to pursue the subject further, the naval secretary said "I can't think of anything more indiscreet to discuss."

Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, said that his request for voluntary secrecy "might have seemed preposterous" when it was first made, but he explained that the Malaya was only the first of a large number of ships coming to American navy yards for repairs.

He added that if the navy's wish were observed, no more British warships would arrive in daylight, identifying bands would be removed from the caps of sailors going ashore and British crews would be instructed not to disclose information.

Bituminous Coal Division Petitioned To Revise Schedules

WASHINGTON, April 16. (AP)—The consumers counsel petitioned the bituminous coal division today to revise schedules of lump and double-scrubbed coal in areas of West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, and Alabama, to make prices the same for domestic and industrial consumers.

Present schedules "are harmful to the interest of the consumer public," the petition said, "because they discriminate in price between difference consumers who may wish to purchase the same coals at the same time."

Hyndman Firemen To Open Spring Carnival Tonight

Many Special Features Are Planned for Affair at Wagner Hall

Hyndman, Pa., April 16 (AP)—Plans have been practically completed for the firemen's spring carnival which will open in Wagner hall tomorrow (Friday) and continue for the remainder of the week.

The Ladies Auxiliary will furnish the special attraction for the Thursday evening program, with a home talent play being presented. Friday evening, Hyndman's orchestra will be the feature attraction. Complete arrangements have not yet been made for the Saturday features.

The Ladies Auxiliary will operate a candy, ice-cream and bakery booth, and the firemen will have several booths, including an eating booth and several special booths.

The firemen, trying to pay off the indebtedness on their apparatus as well as to purchase additional equipment and supplies, have been very active during the past winter, and expect to continue their fund-raising activities throughout the summer. In co-operation with the Fire-ground Association, they expect to sponsor the annual homecoming celebration in June.

McVicker-Yutzy

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Yutzy, Valley street, Cumberland, was the scene Saturday afternoon, of a lovely wedding, when Miss Pauline Yutzy, Madley, became the bride of Edward, Charles McVicker, Hyndman. The Rev. H. M. Petre, Schellburg, Pa., pastor of the Methodist Lutheran church, officiated.

The bride wore a tailored suit of gold-blue, with navy-blue accessories, and was a shoulder corset of pink rose-buds. The bridesmaid, Miss Marian Yutzy, Pittsburgh, sister of the bride, was garbed in a tailored suit of black, with white accessories, and a shoulder corsage of yellow rose-buds. Blaine Shiner, of Cumberland, acted as best man.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. and Mr. Daniel Yutzy, Madley, and a graduate of Hyndman high school. The bridegroom is a graduate of Shippensburg State Teachers college and has taught in Hyndman high school for the past seven years, serving as head of the Science Department. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. McVicker, Akron, Ohio.

A reception followed immediately after the ceremony, with the bride's parents serving as hosts. They also entertained the couple at dinner Sunday.

Immediately relatives and friends present at the wedding, in addition to the bride's parents, were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Yutzy, Miss Joan Yutzy, Jane Yutzy and Joseph Yutzy Jr., all of Cumberland; Mrs. Bernard Arnold, Bedford; Mrs. Carl De Vore, Hagerstown; Mrs. H. M. Petre and daughter, Ruth, Schellburg.

So interesting was the discussion of "The Advanced Cost of Living" engaged in by the Town Hall group at its last session, that the same topic for debate will be continued at the next meeting, Friday evening at Wagner hall.

Hyndman Personals

The third young man to be drafted from the Hyndman area was inducted into the army at Altoona, yesterday, along with eight others from Bedford county. He was Paul R. Howare, Schellburg street, whose wife bore him a son last week.

Misses Alberta Kinsman, Mary Myers and Mildred Hughes have returned from Atlantic City, N. J. Mrs. Effie Gaster left Tuesday for Pittsburgh, where she will be a guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Phillips.

Mrs. Catherine Watts, Stringtown, a former Hyndman resident, spent Wednesday calling on friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. John Corley were Wednesday business visitors at Bedford.

Misses Irene Albright and Eileen Oliver have returned to Harrisburg after spending Easter at their homes here.

John Leonard, Washington, D. C. is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Leonard.

Harvey P. Shaffer, Somerset, attended the funeral of Mrs. E. E. McVicker here Friday, then remained for a visit with numerous relatives, including Mrs. Lewis Shaffer, Mrs. Wardie Hite and family, and Mrs. Ada Kinton and family.

Order Is Issued For Freezing of Steel Prices

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP)—Leon Henderson, price administrator, issued an order today freezing steel prices at the levels which prevailed the first quarter of this year. The action was precipitated by recent wage increases in the industry, Henderson said. He added that a steel price increase now "might touch off a general increase in the cost of living and start the country off on the road to price inflation."

The action taken today to freeze steel prices at levels prevailing during the first quarter of 1941 should not be interpreted as fixing permanently a steel price ceiling for the duration of the emergency or for any set period, Henderson asserted.

Warm Weather Has Crops Booming

COLLEGE PARK, Md., April 16 (AP)—Warm weather so far this month sent crops booming along helping recovery from "the coldest March since 1925," a weather-crop report said today.

Wheat, rye, barley and grasses that "were of good color and good condition" browned somewhat during the cold, windy weather of Feb. 18-24, the report, prepared by John R. Weeks, said.

Greening began during late March, except in the Allegheny mountain region. At the same time, early potatoes and peas were planted and some oats and clover seeds sown on the Eastern Shore.

The week ending yesterday was favorable for field operations and for plant growth, bringing much plowing and planting of early crops, Weeks added.

"Grains and grasses improved, greened nicely, and made growth. Wheat and rye are good; barley is good to excellent, and pastures are fair to good."

What is reaching heights up to six and eight inches, early crops are progressing and "peach and pear trees in the eastern half of the section have budded."

Weeks said last December was the mildest since 1931, January and February were "moderately cold," and March was "the coldest March since 1915, but there was no severe cold."

Big Serb Army

that the British in Greece were "showing more fight than heretofore."

German newspapers hailed the surrender of the Second Serbian Army at Sarajevo as the capitulation of the last of five army groups thrown into battle by Yugoslavia.

Information of operations in North Africa was scant and it was thought that the high command was holding back news of that front in order to make a great showing by issuing a number of important announcements April 20 on the anniversary of Adolf Hitler's fifty-second birthday.

Capitulation of this Yugoslav force, of unestimated number, gave rise to new speculation as to whether an armistice might now be expected with Yugoslavia, but informed Germans said this was extremely unlikely.

Armistice Not Likely

"It takes too much to make an armistice," they said, "each side agreeing under certain conditions to stop fighting. But there doesn't seem to be any Yugoslav government left and certainly the army isn't under unified control. So there is no Serb competent or with authority to make an agreement about anything in behalf of the Serb people."

Announcement of the capitulation was made in a special high command bulletin, issued hours after the morning's official report of capture of Sarajevo and the surrender of "thousands of Serbs," (Yugoslavia's government for a time was reported at Sarajevo.)

Berlin sources said they had no information as to the present whereabouts of King Peter or the Simovic government, although they said they believed that Premier Dusan Simovic himself had left the country.

In the long run, Nazi spokesmen said, the Yugoslav captives will amount to hundreds of thousands, along with vast amounts of arms, munitions, armored trucks, automobiles, horses and mules.

British Take Stand in Greece

The same spokesmen, who had reported they had good evidence that the British were withdrawing troops from Greece to reinforce the North African army, suddenly announced that the Germans had compelled the British to take a stand in Greece.

Shortly after this, the official German news agency DNB reported clashes between German infantry and British engineering units in Northern Greece. Just when this action took place was not specified, but the Germans claimed that they took hundreds of British, Australian and New Zealand soldiers as prisoners.

"A considerable amount of weapons and munitions" was taken when the Germans forced their way through an important pass where the British had entrenched themselves, according to the Nazi version of the encounter.

Agreement

effective date of its (the contract's) application is uncertain, due to the absence from this conference of the Southern operators."

He said the union's policy committee would meet tomorrow to discuss the question of returning to work in view of the tangled sectional situation.

"This brings to the front the question whether the government intends to urge the revolting Southern operators to return to this conference and accept the agreement as negotiated," Lewis said.

After all, it must be true that the needs of a nation and the power of our government must be superior to the influence and power of these Southern coal operators."

As a result of the stoppage when the old contract expired April 1, approximately 400,000 miners, including the 336,000 in the Appalachian area, and 70,000 in outlying states, have been idle. Almost 30,000 continued to work under temporary agreements and have been producing about ten per cent of the country's normal supply.

Plans Are Studied For Speeding War Aid and Defense

New Steps Are Expected To Develop from Conferences

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP)—President Roosevelt and Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada talked for an hour at the White House today, and there were reports that financial matters concerning the two countries were under consideration.

The Canadian executive brushed aside all inquiries about what he and the president had talked over as he left the White House after having tea with Mr. Roosevelt. White House officials also declined any statement.

In informed quarters, however, it was suggested that Canada was concerned about the problem of getting sufficient American dollars to pay for commitments here, and that the discussion might have included the possibility of revision of the Neutrality Act to permit Canada to borrow money in the United States. The neutrality law forbids loans to belligerents.

Canada is not receiving aid under the lease-lend program.

Makes No Comments on Plans

When reporters asked the prime minister whether he had brought with him from Ottawa any problems involving Canadian participation in the lease-lend program, he replied that he had promised Canadian newspapersmen that he would give no interviews while in this country.

All he would say was that he expected to remain in Washington for several days, that he planned to confer with Secretary Hull, and that he expected to see Mr. Roosevelt again early next week.

The prime minister arrived in Washington in the late afternoon after undergoing an annual physical check-up earlier in the day at Johns-Hopkins hospital in Baltimore.

His visit stirred wide speculation that some new steps toward greater Canadian-American collaboration was in the making. Fanning this speculation were these developments:

Officials Confer on Shipping

A conference of Neville Butler, British minister, and Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, on the shipping situation, Butler indicated that one of the questions involved was that of American merchant ships replacing British vessels in the Pacific to permit diversion of the British ships for carrying supplies to Great Britain.

An indication from Secretary Knox that the navy would guard any American land forces sent to the new United States bases in Greenland, and that a part of the coast guard might be transferred to the navy.

Prime Minister King's visit to the United States was described as primarily for a vacation. Officials were reticent about what subjects he and Mr. Roosevelt might discuss, but momentous events were emerging from informal chats over tea cups.

Since Canada and the United States are fast developing joint defenses under a program mapped out at the last meeting of the president and the prime minister, the problem of getting American and Canadian war supplies across the submarine-infested Atlantic was thought to be one of the most urgent before them this time.

How this problem would be met—whether by convoys or perhaps by some as yet unmentioned device—was the subject of wide speculation.

The convoy issue itself was shunted aside temporarily in Congress when the Senate Foreign Relations committee unanimously agreed to put off consideration of the Tobey anti-convoys resolution until April 30.

Senator Tobey (R-NH) said he would continue meanwhile to seek support for his resolution banning the use of American naval vessels for convoy purposes.

The Nazi action was far-spread, British forces having been engaged during the day along the whole of the front, but Allied military informants termed it preliminary, exploratory and generally cautious.

This information, seemed corroborated by the admission of semi-official German sources in Berlin that the British were "showing more fight than heretofore." And their sudden abandonment of earlier accusations that an English withdrawal from Greece was in prospect.

German sources described the main new Allied front as running from Larissa on the East Southwest to Trifolia and then West to Ioannina.

Already the steel German columns had thrust deep into Greece—through the mountain passes South of Kozani and Statista to a depth of fifty miles or more—but it was declared here that this advance had nowhere run up against the main Allied defense positions, a front formed of mountains and well fortified positions.

Nazi Seek Opening

The Nazis, apparently preparing for a big offensive, were active mainly in seeking a soft area to continue the Southward advance.

The main German drive still was headed down the Central section of the Greek peninsula. A Nazi column to the East fought Allied forces in the region of Mount Olympus. A series of Nazi assaults in that area was declared drawn back.

The war in the air was violent. Allied reports covering operations of yesterday accounted for sixteen Axis planes shot down against no reported Allied losses. Too, British fighters were declared to have destroyed a 6,000-ton freighter and a 7,000-ton ammunition vessel in the Italian-held harbor of Valona, in Albania.

New Positions

seems all those difficulties which are natural after enforced evacuation and transfer of defensive lines under fire.

Previously, the British declared that heavy fighting was in progress in several sectors of the defense line and the Greeks threw across the Greek peninsula for a decisive stand against the mechanized hosts of the Nazi invaders.

The British war office in London said there was no confirmation from their own or the Greek command of a German-organized rumor that the Allied line had been pierced at its Eastern end near Mount Olympus, opening the Plain of Larissa to the Nazis.

Greek Town Bombed

The Greek military spokesmen mentioned a score of towns bombed and machine-gunned by German planes clear across the Greek Peninsula, but said damage was small. He declared the Greeks now had taken up new positions as ordered after the German penetration of Western Macedonia.

The Nazi action was far-spread, British forces having been engaged during the day along the whole of the front, but Allied military informants termed it preliminary, exploratory and generally cautious.

This information, seemed corroborated by the admission of semi-official German sources in Berlin that the British were "showing more fight than heretofore." And their sudden abandonment of earlier accusations that an English withdrawal from Greece was in prospect.

German sources described the main new Allied front as running from Larissa on the East Southwest to Trifolia and then West to Ioannina.

Already the steel German columns had thrust deep into Greece—through the mountain passes South of Kozani and Statista to a depth of fifty miles or more—but it was declared here that this advance had nowhere run up against the main Allied defense positions, a front formed of mountains and well fortified positions.

Nazi Seek Opening

The Nazis, apparently preparing for a big offensive, were active mainly in seeking a soft area to continue the Southward advance.

The main German drive still was headed down the Central section of the Greek peninsula. A Nazi column to the East fought Allied forces in the region of Mount Olympus. A series of Nazi assaults in that area was declared drawn back.

The war in the air was violent. Allied reports covering operations of yesterday accounted for sixteen Axis planes shot down against no reported Allied losses. Too, British fighters were declared to have destroyed a 6,000-ton freighter and a 7,000-ton ammunition vessel in the Italian-held harbor of Valona, in Albania.

London Suffers

vanage of it to send strong raiding squadrons against Boulogne and Cap Gris-Nez on the French coast, aiming at big gun emplacements from which the Dover area was shelled again Wednesday.

Apparently London was bearing the full fury of the German raiders, for the British Press Association said there were no reports of bombings elsewhere in England.

One stick of heaviest bombs burst in a line and a witness said buildings collapsed.

Both the National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia Broadcasting System reported that their London offices had been wrecked by bombs but that their staffs escaped. It was the third time CBS has been bombed out and the second for NBC.

The explosions indicated the raiders were following closely the line of the Thames.

Thousands of defense workers were called out in some districts for the first time in a month.

Heavy Damage Caused

Guns on the channel coast thundered at the raiders as they crossed the shore and London's anti-aircraft batteries met them with the most vicious barrage heard in many weeks.

But the high explosive bombs caused heavy damage in a number of London areas and the raid increased in intensity as the night wore on.

The London guns caught Nazi "chandeliers" flares in flaming bursts, and early in the night, one German raider was brought down in a great orange and green flash.

Hundreds in a subway shelter were shaken when a bomb-falling nearby interrupted train service and hurled persons downstairs in the station.

In another area a first-aid post was hit and a number of persons were buried.

German and RAF bombers streamed back and forth across the Straits of Dover last night, the Nazis subjecting London to an attack which apparently was the heaviest in recent weeks while the British struck at the French invasion ports from Boulogne to Cap Gris-Nez.

London's defensive gunfire roared to higher and higher intensity in the East, West and South as the Germans came over at very high altitudes in starlit skies.

The night's aerial show was preceded by a bombardment of the Dover area during the afternoon from German cannon on the French coast, silent for more than two weeks past.

Precautionary

precautionary. Plans long approved call for having 1,400,000 men under arms by June.

"This is the sort of thing," Patterson said, "which, if we could have done it two years ago, would have saved a great deal of expense and time in getting camps ready when men were called out."

While Knox had approved the "spirit" of a bill, introduced by Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Naval committee under which a mandatory cooling off period would be imposed before a strike could start in a defense industry, he had advised that the measure be "pruned up a bit."

"I think I would confine myself to doing everything and to resort to every possible device to bring the men around a conference table rather than a resort to strike and violence," he said today. "Let's confine ourselves to what has been found effective thus far."

Labor Relations Improve

A great improvement in labor relations was noticeable, he said, attributing this to the activities of the Defense Mediation Board and to public opinion.

He suggested that when a union determines to strike it must give ten days notice to the board, that the latter should have twenty days to investigate, and if within that time it should fail to bring about a settlement, the union be required to wait still another ten days before striking.

"Suppose nothing happens then?" he was asked by Rep. Cole (D-Mo.).

"Then there'd be a strike," the cabinet officer answered.

Rep. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) inquired as to the advisability of drafting "executive brains" for government service just as young men are drafted for military training. As for dollar-a-year men, the Texas added.

"I'm afraid the government is getting just what it pays for," Unions Oppose Bill

Knox laughed and said it was not necessary to draft business in general. He said every friend he had in business had volunteered to "come down here" and help.

Following Knox on the stand, John Green, president of the International Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America (CIO), opposed the Vinson bill and said his organization "resents" any implication that organized labor is any less patriotic or less devoted to the welfare of the country and to its military defense than other citizens.

In particular, he opposed a feature of the bill which would outlaw strikes aimed at obtaining a closed shop.

Co-operative Electric Group Fights Potomac Edison's Line Building

Say Firm Has No Right To Erect Lines in Two Counties

BALTIMORE, April 16 (AP)—The right of the Potomac Edison Electric Company to erect new power lines in Frederick and Carroll counties was attacked before the Maryland Public Service Commission here today as the Adams Electric Cooperative, Inc., of Gettysburg, Pa., continued its fight for permission to erect lines in the area.

Attorney Harry Lambertson for the cooperative called the commission's executive secretary, Frank Harper, to the stand in an effort to substantiate the cooperative's allegation that Potomac Edison has "no right under the laws of the state of Maryland" to "construct, own and operate" lines.

Harper testified he did not know of a certificate of convenience and necessity ever having been issued to Potomac Edison for the erection of lines in the counties which the cooperative, sponsored by the Rural Electrification Administration, seeks to serve.

State PSC Official Testifies

"I would be very much surprised to find that there had been" such a certificate issued, Harper said. He explained that Potomac Edison or its predecessors operated in the counties in question prior to the formation of the Public Service Commission in 1910, and said he knew of no request from them since that time.

Harper also supplied from the commission's annual reports figures for rural line construction by Potomac Edison, in all the territory it serves, for three years. He said that in 1938 a total of 70 miles had been built; in 1939, 12 1/2 miles; and in 1940, 16 1/2 miles; that construction was not confined to Frederick and Carroll counties, he explained.

After his testimony, Lambertson made a second request for a commission order restraining Potomac Edison from further construction of lines in the affected area pending conclusion of the hearing. The commission deferred ruling on the motion.

Lambertson made a similar request at the close of yesterday's hearing, after an REA official, Carleton L. Nau, testified Potomac Edison was engaging in a campaign of building in an effort to kill off interest in the cooperative.

Attorneys in Lengthy Arguments

Much of today's session was taken up with attorneys' arguments over the fairness of cross examination addressed to the president of the cooperative, Cecil Dunbar, who took the stand shortly before noon.

Attorney W. Clinton McSherry, representing Potomac Edison, addressed to Dunbar numerous questions relating to the application of the cooperative for permission to erect lines to serve farms in the two Maryland counties.

Dunbar, a resident of Adams county, repeatedly said "I don't know" or "I don't remember" in answer to questions about the solicitation of members, dates on which the cooperative took action to move into Maryland, and the area which the cooperative proposed to serve.

Counsel for the cooperative objected to the questions on the technical nature which the president of the firm, a farmer, should not be required to know.

The morning session was taken up principally by hearing of additional testimony from farmers which the cooperative proposes to serve with electricity.

Most of them testified they were unable or reluctant to meet the firm's charges for line construction or minimum monthly charges.

"Selection should be regarded as a stamp of efficiency, a signal honor and a distinct privilege."

British Strike

still stands as a threat to the German-Italian communication lines.

An Italian announcement spoke of the "investment" of Tobruk, but acknowledged that the British were putting up a fierce fight with the support of warships close by.

In Ethiopia, the British officially said of steady progress north and south toward Dessie, around which 10,000 Italians and 12,000 of the Italian's native troops are said unofficially to be concentrating.

The other Italian forces were placed in the Gondar and Jimma areas southwest and northwest of Addis Ababa.

Berman Loses Appeal To Governor O'Connor For a Pardon

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 16 (AP)—Louis Berman, a life termer whose habeas corpus writs have been heard and turned down by practically every judge in Maryland, failed today to win a recommendation for a pardon.

Berman, sentenced in 1928 to life imprisonment in the penitentiary for the first degree murder of a Baltimore lawyer, had asked Governor O'Connor for an unconditional pardon. He contended his confinement was unlawful and requested a hearing.

The case was referred to Parole Director Herman M. Moser, who wrote O'Connor today that "I strongly recommend that Berman's petition for pardon be refused."

Moser also declined to recommend clemency for seven other convicts. Clyde Holbroun and Grace Cochran also sought pardons. Holbroun is serving three years for forgery in Washington county and the woman is free on parole granted in 1933 by ex-governor Ritchie. She had been convicted of murder in Montgomery county.

Moser refused to recommend commutation of sentence for Daniel R. Bryd, serving four years for bigamy in Montgomery county; Chester E. Paul, sentenced to fifteen years for assault to rape in Calvert county; Thomas May, serving seven years for assault to rob in Baltimore; Arthur Mitchell, negro, sentenced to twenty years for robbery in Montgomery county and James Willis, negro, serving six years for assault to kill in Prince George's county.

NEW SHORT-CUT TO COFFEE ENJOYMENT

THIS STREAMLINED IDEA IS A REAL WORK-SAVER WHEN I WANT A CUP OF COFFEE

"Often when I'm alone, I want a cup of coffee. But do you think I'd bother with a lot of old-fashioned fuss and muss? Not me! I'm modern. I use Nescafé. And making Nescafé is almost as easy as wishing for a good cup of coffee. I simply put Nescafé in a cup and add hot water. It's ready—just like that! Think of it—no coffee pot to get ready, or to wash afterward. No grounds to clean up. Nothing to do but rinse out a cup. How's the flavor? You'll agree with me—it's marvelous! Just try it."

Now is the Time TO STORE YOUR FURS

The Most Valuable SHELVES IN TOWN

You wouldn't think it, perhaps, to look at them. Rows of queer-looking boxes and bottles, lining the shelves of our prescription department. But these containers hold strange, potent medicaments from all over the world. Many are rare and costly, not to be found in the average pharmacy. But this is Prescription Headquarters. Here, every prescription must be compounded precisely as the Doctor directs. This assurance should mean much to you in an hour of need. Bring the Doctor's prescriptions here to be filled.

Doctor Discusses Whooping Cough Vaccination

Series Must Start Over if Vaccine Administration
Is Interrupted

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Can vaccination against whooping cough be continued successfully after interruption?

The instance cited is that of a child who had one dose of whooping cough vaccine and then, because of a throat infection, the second vaccination was not given on time. Convalescence was prolonged so that six weeks elapsed and the question arises whether the first dose of vaccine is effective and can count so that the second and third doses given at this long interval will be as effective as if given in the customary week to three weeks apart. (The present accepted procedure is three-week intervals for whooping cough vaccine.)

In general it is true of any immunization procedure that the interval timing of dosage which has been worked out should be observed, and if any interruption occurs—especially one of as much as a month—the entire series should be started over again.

Reaction Not Severe

Another question that might be asked is whether the first dose would sensitize the patient so that a second dose at long interval would cause a reaction, more or less severe. But authorized Haemophilus pertussis vaccine (Sauer) is said to contain no animal protein whatever, and so this danger is eliminated.

What is the new operation called skin peeling?

In cases of deep pitted scars on the face following acne, and in certain other conditions of dark pigmentation of the face of the skin (Chloasma, liver spots) when extensive enough, it is possible to remove or peel the superficial layers of the skin, giving a much improved cosmetic appearance. Normally the upper layer of the skin sheds at a slow rate. The cells of which it is composed move up from the bottom layers of the skin, gradually lose their nuclei, flatten out and finally fall off. It is possible to hasten this process by chemicals and cause the peeling of deeper cells than normally would shed. A paste containing these chemicals is left on for a short time and then washed off. An inflammatory reaction with peeling occurs. The process is repeated several times. Many very unsightly conditions are removed permanently.

Questions and Answers

P. M.—Is excessive perspiring harmful, especially on the scalp? Would it make the hair fall out? Is it due to nervousness?

Answer — There are certainly sympathetic nervous system—like the scalp and the armpits are no—the dry and the wet. Scientific perspiration on a mildly warm day does not cause baldness and, on the basis of those who have bathed, these have been explained or after taking a mildly warm bath. The distribution of the nervous disposition. Frances Jane Crosby, blind from birth, wrote 2,000 religious hymns in her lifetime. Some days she wrote six or seven, and completed one, "Safe In The Arms of Jesus," in fifteen minutes.

WHISKEY HABIT

Drinkers Get Important Vitamin

Excessive drinking usually results in diminishing intake of Vitamin B-1. Improved White Ribbon Remedy tends to supply this need which helps to relieve nervous symptoms accompanying Vitamin B-1 deficiency. This relief helps to combat most of the ill effects often associated with overindulgence. Sold by Ford's drug stores.—Advertisement.

THE DAILY STORY

EXCLUSIVE

A Man's Search for a Lost Romance Ends on a Strange Note when He Finds It on a Street Corner

By WALLACE K. NORMAN
The managing editor, having sent a hurry call for his ace story hawk, came directly to the point.

"Dawson," said he, "I've just picked off an 18-carat exclusive through a confidential source in Havana." His eyes became inquiring. "Do you remember Dora Kimbal?"

"Where's the story?" he asked. "What's our angle?" "This," was the reply. "A personal friend of mine cabled me from Havana this morning. Sanders died near there last week. He'd been living under an assumed name for a quarter of a century. He left an estate valued at $3,000,000." The M. E. paused. "He left it to me. But he didn't. After a month of it, he returned to New York, weary, empty-handed. For the first time in his career, Dawson had flubbed an assignment. An exclusive into the bargain.

Reaching his paper, Dawson found the managing editor home, ill. He wandered from the office, down into the street. Snow sifting from leaden skies whirled and danced under the lash of a north wind. Dawson was cold, miserable, dejected. The only familiar figure he saw was old Nellie, huddled beside her newsstand. Frustration spurred Dawson to commit the newspaperman's cardinal sin. He spilled an exclusive duiged his one superstition. He bought a paper from old Nellie who ran the corner newsstand. If he bought a paper from her on his way to cover an assignment, he always came back with the goods, no matter how tough the job.

"Wish me luck, Nellie," he called, pocketing a paper.

It was winter, bitterly cold. Old Nellie shivered in her rusty black coat. Ice wind whipped strands of gray hair across her watery eyes. That night Dawson boarded the Havana plane to pick up the quarter-of-a-century old trail of romance and mystery left by Dora Kimbal and her gay Australian. But the trail was cold, dead. Dawson followed it to Mexico City, to San Salvador. It was still cold and dead. But he wouldn't give up. He was Dawson, the ace. If Dora Kimbal was alive, he'd find her.

But he didn't. After a month of it, he returned to New York, weary, empty-handed. For the first time in his career, Dawson had flubbed an assignment. An exclusive into the bargain.

SALLY'S SALLIES

The average telephone subscriber is continually wondering how it is that wrong numbers are never engaged.

to an outsider before he'd wound up the job.

Shivering in the bitter wind, old Nellie at first listened with polite tolerance to the story of Dora Kimbal. Then slowly the warmth of the love of the fairy princess for the gay knight in the golden armor seemed to penetrate her frozen soul.

"And now he's dead," she said. "The man she loved so much is dead."

Dawson nodded. "But that isn't the important thing," he said. "It's Dora Kimbal. She's alive, somewhere, I know it. I feel it. And I'm going to find her!" he finished with sudden fierce resolve.

But Nellie, having caught the pulsing warmth of the tragic romance, didn't hear him. Her rheumy eyes stared off into the withering snow-filled dusk.

"And now he's dead," she muttered. "The man she loved so much. What a pity. What a pity."

Dawson turned to go. "Goodnight, Nellie," he said, moving away.

Over his shoulder Dawson saw her step heavily from the curb into the path of the thundering coal truck, her arms outstretched to greet it. Dawson yelled futilely, frantically.

Dawson turned, dashed back. Kneeling beside the torn bundle in the street, he felt as if some one had reached inside his shirt and pulled his heart out.

The crushed figure in the rusty black coat lay still, snow drifting gently over the tear-stained face. Dawson, the ace, had his exclusive, even though he'd had to go all the way to the corner to get it. But he'd missed one important detail. He didn't know why they had parted. A fierce exultation filled him. He was glad he didn't know. And since he didn't, the curious, prying, cynical world would never know—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

City Fathers Vote To Extend Water Line To Cheese Factory

GRANTSVILLE, April 16.—An organization meeting and installation of new councilmen was held in the council rooms last evening.

Officers installed to serve for a term of two years were: Charles O. Bender, who was re-elected, president, and Harry L. Yommer, Miss Ethel Broadwater was re-appointed tax collector and Clyde P. Bender, clerk.

Harry C. Edwards was appointed water commissioner by a unanimous vote. Mr. Edwards will have in charge of this work and is authorized to make any repairs he deems necessary. The matter of extending the two-inch water line to the premises occupied by the cheese factory was brought up for discussion, and the council decided to comply with the request. Work on the extension is to be started shortly. Only a three-quarter-inch line now runs to this property, which the proprietors of the factory find inadequate to meet their needs.

Indian Chief To Speak

An interesting program is to be presented in the school auditorium at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow (Thursday) afternoon by Chief Yellow Thunder and his family. Chief Yellow Thunder is a full-blooded Winnebago Indian and is an outstanding lecturer on the customs, teaching, religion and general life of the American Indian. He has been lecturing for about twenty-eight years, appearing in many churches and schools throughout the country.

In recent years there has been a growing interest in the life of the redmen and Chief Yellow Thunder has made it his hobby to make an extensive study of the history and legends of his people. In tomorrow's program he will give interesting accounts of Indian life, sing in language, language of the blanket and a brief sketch of the history of the bow and arrow, Indian songs and dances will also be featured. The presentation is sponsored by the school.

Preacher To Talk At P-TA Meeting

Midland School Group To Hear Health Talk by the Rev. W. V. Simon

MIDLAND, April 16.—The Rev. Walter V. Simon, of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Frostburg, will be the principal speaker at the April meeting of the Midland Consolidated School Parent-Teacher Association Monday evening.

The theme selected for the April meeting is "Health." Mr. Simon will discuss several phases of healthful living.

Mrs. John Robertson, president, has issued a special invitation to all parents of children who were registered this spring for entrance to the first grade in September. Special emphasis will be placed on health examinations of all beginning pupils to assure a minimum of physical defects. This will be in eliminating such handicaps as teeth, diseased tonsils, defective vision. These defects will be treated by the local dentist and optician.

Mr. Simon is scheduled to be at 8 o'clock, and each member is requested to bring a friend or a parent of a beginning pupil.

Isabelle Parrill vs. Edward C. Parrill. No. 16086 Equity in the Circuit Court for Allegany County.

The object and purpose of this suit is to procure a divorce a vinculo matrimonii by Isabelle Parrill from Edward C. Parrill the Defendant. The Bill states that the parties were married on October 12, 1927, and no children have been born. That although the Plaintiff conducted herself as a kind, faithful and affectionate wife, yet the Defendant, by his intolerable conduct, forced a separation upon the Plaintiff, who has since that time resided in Allegany County for more than two years, and has not been heard from since the separation of the parties. That the Plaintiff has continued uninterruptedly for at least three years, and that there is no reasonable hope of reconciliation. That the Plaintiff has resided in Allegany County for more than two years, and has not been heard from since the separation of the parties. That the Plaintiff has continued uninterruptedly for at least three years, and that there is no reasonable hope of reconciliation. Honeymoon Gold

by PEGGY DERN

SYNOPSIS

AND BETSY FORMAN inherited a fortune from her father, a wealthy industrialist who had died some years ago. Markham had established the fortune as a "honeymoon" gift to his daughter, and she had been brought up to believe that it was her duty to use it for the benefit of the world.

ALICE SCHUYLER, moneyed socialite, and her daughter, BETSY, were the only ones who knew of the fortune. They had been brought up to believe that it was their duty to use it for the benefit of the world.

MARKHAM, the father, was a wealthy industrialist who had died some years ago. He had left a fortune to his daughter, BETSY, and she had been brought up to believe that it was her duty to use it for the benefit of the world.

Mr. Markham—to be willing to have a lot of strangers here—

Major Edmonds beamed happily behind her, yet there was something in the back of his tired, kind eyes the faintest hint of a plea for understanding of his flustering, girlish wife whom he quite obviously adored.

"I hope you will be quite comfortable in the cottage we've prepared for you," said Betsy, giving the major a friendly handshake.

"Oh, you mustn't worry about us, my dear. An old campaigner like me gets mighty few chances at anything as beautiful and as luxurious as Halcyn Island, I can assure you," said the major handsomely.

Mrs. Edmonds, her hand possessively through Tom's arm, leading the way toward the path across the sand dunes, trailing behind her a rather heady scent of spiced sweetness. Betsy would have sworn that Mrs. Edmonds also trailed the lacy fluffiness of an evening gown, though in reality her frock of powder-blue crepe was quite plain and well cut.

"Willie, dear," her voice trailed behind her, soft and sweet, but definitely with the expectation of being obeyed.

"Coming, dear," said the major hastily. Shouldering the two bags, he followed, with an almost apologetic glance at Betsy.

Betsy turned to the other couple who still stood on the pier. A small, cuddly sort of a blonde girl in a short, rather rumpled dark frock, her head bare, her sunny curls tangled in an enchantingly childlike confusion. Beside her, a tall, broad-shouldered, husky young fellow who looked as though he might have been far more at home in football togs than in the gray slacks and blue pullover sweater he wore. His head was bare, too, and Betsy saw straw-colored, crisp locks that would not quite lie straight.

Before Betsy could speak, the girl strode herself against the man's arm, lifted first one foot and then the other, gravely and thoroughly examining the scuffed, rather thin sole.

"It's funny," she mused, as though she spoke her thoughts aloud. "I'd have sworn they were gummy, since I've been ankle-deep in syrup and honeymoon for the past two and a half hours."

Betsy looked puzzled. The young man muttered something under his breath that sounded like, "For heaven's sake, behave yourself."

But the girl looked straight at Betsy and asked with bland sweetness, "What's the penalty for murder in this state?"

"I'm afraid I wouldn't know," Betsy said.

"Well, never mind. The judge will he swears. Make it thirty minutes, nevermore. Don't be annoyed at his amusing himself while serving sentence. Even converse with him if he so desires; only he must serve out his time.

There is no occasion to stand over him with a stick. Tell him just once that if he should leave the chair before the time is up, you will spank him. Be sure you do the first time he leaves and every time thereafter. He will try you out and take a step or two and you will be tempted then to shout and threat. But regardless of this do exactly what you said you would do without a single exception.

You will get best results in any warranted punishment if you practice self-control and talk calmly with no show of feeling.

Solving Parent Problems

Q What is the best treatment for nail-biting?

A More family poise and serenity, quiet voices and usually silent radio, more love, sympathy and understanding of the child; and better routing habits in the child who will not have too much excitement, nor grow too weary at play, but will have ample outdoor fun with other of his age. Then expect improvement only after several weeks or months.

One must admire this mother for her conscientious effort to see her problem and find ways to solve it. This was my reply.

Inasmuch as the earlier program you and your husband planned and followed worked so well, you can have confidence that you will solve this problem.

Just assign him, as you have done, to sit in the chair each time he sits on a chair fifteen minutes every time I heard a swear word. He will carry on an imaginary conversation with himself, say nursery rhymes, count objects and otherwise amuse himself. If I lengthen the time of sitting I have to enforce it with a stick and stand right over him. Now I've been trying to slap his mouth every time he says a bad word. This seems to bring back the old nervousness and once in a while he stutters. This alarms us, of course. We know something is wrong with our methods. We will be more than glad to try whatever plan you suggest. Enclosed is a stamped envelope.

Now we have another problem. He has a grandfather who swears in and Merle is beginning to become undesirable speech habit. At first we explained to him that our family don't talk that way. We just ignored it when he had a bad word thinking he would stop it if no fuss were made. This didn't work.

APPRECIATE YOUR GIFTS

WHEN THE opponents have been so kind as to double a contract on which you can make a confident redouble, you are probably the recipient of a very fine gift. You ought to appreciate it, and prove the fact by working carefully to make the redoubled contract. Extra tricks may be extra nice, especially when they carry the redoubled value, but how silly you are if you jeopardize the entire gift by striving for too many tricks.

What a tough spot East was in to find a good bid, while vulnerable, after North's heart call. His patience in passing was rewarded, if seemed, when the opponents got so high that he could make a gleeful double. He would have been out of luck, though, if South had not become greedy and badly misplayed the hand.

West led the heart 10, and South decided to try to take all of the tricks. He ruffed this with the spade 5, next a diamond with the spade 2, led the spade 4 to the A, ruffed the second diamond with the spade 8, then a heart with the spade K and a third diamond with the spade 10. He returned to his hand by ruffing a heart with his last trump, the J. If both defenders had followed suit, he would have taken all the rest of the tricks, but East did not. This left West with the last trump, so after the club A South got no more tricks, being down two.

For four tricks, all was in good order, but then South should have quit the ruffing. If he had returned to his hand with the spade 10 to the K, then laid down the Q, setting the hostile trumps, he could have given up one diamond and had the spade J left for re-entry to run the rest of the diamonds. Played thus, he could have made an overtrick, without having to depend on an even break of trumps.

Midland Library To Reopen Today

MIDLAND, April 16—The Midland Public Library will re-open its doors tomorrow (Thursday) afternoon after much hard work of the committee in charge to again furnish the town with a library. Ever since it was forced to close several months ago due to the withdrawal of the NYA project, a local committee has been working to find ways and means of again opening it.

A librarian, Miss Bella Toon, Westernport, is being furnished by the PWA project, and the library is well stocked with books from the

Maternity Frock with Jacket

Marian Martin

PATTERN 9704

Of course you can enjoy maternity-time—with the proper concealing clothes! Marian Martin comes to the rescue with Pattern 9704, a smart jacket-frock. The simple but thorough adjustment is accomplished by an all-around drawstring which gracefully ties at the waist. More gathers or rows of shirring appear just below the well-shaped yoke which would make a delightful frame for your face and throat in lace-edged contrast as shown. A round neckline version is included. Going round to the back see the lovely, slim lines of the panels. For an additional aid to concealment, top off the frock with a smart jacket that may be with sleeves or sleeveless.

Pattern 9704 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 dress requires 4½ yards 39-inch fabric, ¾ yard contrast and 1½ yards lace edging.

Send fifteen cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

Be first with new fashions for the warm-weather season! Send today for the Marian Martin Pattern Book. It's gay with color and filled with facts about fabrics and accessories. There are smart, original easy-to-make styles for day and evening, town and country, work and play. You'll like the completeness of our fashion coverage—the simple accuracy of our patterns—the promptness of our mail service—and the low price of our book, fifteen cents. Pattern fifteen cents. Book and pattern to either, twenty-five cents.

Bonds Show Gains

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP)—A selected group of railroad bonds attracted buyers at gains of fractions to more than a point today as other groups drifted indifferently in a mixed trend. Government bonds were ahead on the stock exchange most of the session and several issues ended up with net gains of 4-32 to 18-32 of a point but final quotations over the counter varied little from those of Tuesday.

'That Night in Rio' Continues Strand Run

Between Alice Faye and Carmen Miranda there is enough artistic temperament to have started a dozen of those constantly recurring Hollywood "feuds." But the glamorous young ladies, co-starring with Don Ameche in the Technicolor Twentieth Century-Fox production "That Night in Rio," appearing at the Strand theater today and tomorrow, became fast friends.

As a result of this friendship the Brazilian "Bombshell" invited Alice to be her house-guest in Rio de Janeiro during Alice's planned South American vacation. The invitation to visit Rio was extended Alice by Carmen on behalf of the American stars' South American fans, of which she has plenty.

Unfortunately Carmen won't be able to entertain her guest in her fifteen-room Rio show place. Contractual commitments for personal appearances will keep Carmen busy in the United States for the next two years. But with a house full of servants at her disposal in this mansion that overlooks the harbor and a private beach, Alice will have a generous taste of Brazilian hospitality.

Bennett and O'Brien Co-Starred at Liberty

Drama, action and romance feature Columbia's "Escape To Glory," which opened yesterday at the Liberty theater, starring Pat O'Brien and Constance Bennett, with a supporting cast headed by John Halliday, Melville Cooper and Alan Baxter.

"Escape To Glory" tells the story of men and women facing disaster and death, and behaving each according to his nature. A soldier of fortune who has hitherto sold his courage for cash discovers that money isn't everything; a girl who had hitherto sold her loyalty for minks and sables finds that warmth can come from the heart; a gunman facing execution chooses the manner of his death—to die obtaining his revenge, but to die in a blaze of glory.

Paulette Goddard Stars In 'The Great Dictator'

Columbians have long given much space to the fact that, fine performances though they give in the various Charlie Chaplin pictures, none of his leading ladies has afterwards made good "on her own."

Now, contrary to all predictions, Paulette Goddard, again his leading lady in "The Great Dictator," opens today at the Maryland theater, has exploded that time-worn theory, for she not only gave an excellent portrayal in "Modern Times" but went right on to stardom after that picture.

In "The Great Dictator," Paulette returns to a part somewhat similar to the one in which she made her debut in "Modern Times." She portrays the role of a little laundress, Charlie's friend, companion and ally through fortune and misfortune. Again, her clothes are a far cry from those in the Fifth Avenue shops.

Tim Holt Is Starred In Embassy Picture

Marking his second starring action film, Tim Holt's "The Pargo Kid," showing for the last time today at the Embassy theater, presents a vivid picture of frontier days during the gold era. The kid's assumption of the identity of a notorious bandit sets off the drama, much of which was photographed amid the grandeur of the Escalante mountains in Utah near Zion national park.

A young cowboy traveling to meet two friends in the mining town of Micaville, encounters a bandit in the desert. The kid is forced to take the bandit's horse after the bandit has tried to hold him up. Because of the horse, the kid is mistaken for the outlaw on arrival, and the town assayer, a thorough-going scoundrel, hires him to murder an elderly prospector on whose claim there is a secret vein of valuable ore.

Franchot Tone Plays In Garden Western

The Universal adventure epic, "Trail of the Vigilantes," with Franchot Tone in his first Western starring role, is currently on the screen at the Garden theater. Tone appears at the head of a cast that includes Warren William, Broderick Crawford, Andy Devine

Cardinals Take Second Straight from Reds

Champions Are Held to 5 Hits By Mort Cooper

Vander Meer Allows only Seven Hits but Six Passes Are Harmful

CINCINNATI, O., April 16 (AP)—Morton Cooper pitched five-hit ball today, fanned seven and led the St. Louis Cardinals to their second straight victory over the Champion Cincinnati Reds, 4 to 2.

Johnny Vander Meer, on the hill for the Reds, allowed seven hits and whiffed eight, but issued six passes.

The Cards put across two runs in the second on a walk to Rube Slaughter, Walter Cooper's single and an error on Eddie Joost's line drive of Frank Crespi's grounder.

But the Reds evaded things in their half when, with two away, Jim Rippie dropped a Texas-League double into short center. Harry Craft walked and Joost atoned for his misdeed by blasting a double to score ninth.

Otherwise, the world champions were helpless.

With Vander Meer fanning five of six men to face him between the third and fifth, it wasn't until late that the Cards could break the spell.

With one out in the ninth, Crespi doubled to the scoreboard. Mort Cooper beat out a roller to third. Herman Tripplet batted for Kay and got on base when his ball struck Crespi, automatically retiring him. Johnny Hopp ran for Tripplet, and scored behind his pitcher on Brown's two-bagger to right.

Boston Defeats Phillies 4 to 1

PHILADELPHIA, April 16 (AP)—The Phillies offense bogged down before Manuel Savion's three-hit pitching today as Boston's Bees evened their series at one all with a 4 to 1 victory before a slim crowd of 2,518.

Boston sewed up the game in the first inning when successive singles by Sebastian Sisti, Carvel Row and Gene Moore, a hit batsman, an infield out and Eddie Miller's long foul to left field accounted for three runs.

The SPORT TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, April 16 (The Special News Service)—The latest bulletin from Leo Durocher is to the effect that Van Mungo is the key to the success of the Brooklyn Dodgers this year, a slightly confusing report in that in Durocher's last previous report he intimated that as far as he was concerned, Mr. Mungo was the key to nothing but the doghouse.

Shortly after Mungo's one man riot at Havana Durocher informed us quite vehemently that the ever-promising pitcher in no way entered the plans for the season.

He still was simmering when Larry MacPhail announced that Mungo was being returned to good standing. Durocher declared that one more false step on Mungo's part and either he or Mungo would be out.

Apparently cooled by the soothing Northern breezes Durocher said in a banquet speech the eve of the opening game:

"Mungo is the key to our success. He's showed more stuff, this spring than he has in five years."

He didn't amplify on the type of stuff Mungo has shown. Anyway, this he's up, he's down, he's up again business is a little hard on the nerves of the Dodger fans who can stand just about anything but uncertainty.

The stiff line and suspension lacked on Gunnar Barlund for failure to proceed in his bout with Billy Conn after a physician had announced Barlund was able to continue brings up the question of mercy as associated with the boxing game.

Paul Damski, Barlund's manager, issued the cease firing order to his man, who had suffered a slight eyelid cut. If Damski's action had a humanitarian motive, which the Illinois commission obviously doubts, Damski might be commended.

Too often the managers are on the w-o-n in and sling kid. They can't hurt us" type, and too often we've seen a battered, bleeding warrior stumble blindly to his corner to be hastily repaired and slapped viciously to bring sense to a befogged brain.

A little mercy in the corner can be condemned. In Damski's case, however, the commission thinks it was a little too much on the mercy me how rough" order.

When Thomson started to play golf seriously he determined to make himself the longest driver in the world, and possibly he has succeeded although Sam Snead might argue the point.

However, on the occasions we have seen Thomson in action we were impressed not so much by the length of the balls off the tee as by their weird behavior. You never could tell the direction of the groen by watching Jimmy drive, as the ball was liable to take the course of a warped rainbow and wind up nestled in a gully somewhere beyond an adjoining fairway.

Next to Horton Smith, who scores well despite the fact he sneaks up on a green from tree to tree like a stalking Indian, Jimmy probably gets as much practice trouble shooting as any of the better pros.

Indians Down
Chicago 6 to 0

CLEVELAND, April 16 (AP)—Southpaw Al Miller limited the Chicago White Sox to two singles today as Hal Trosky and Roy Weatherly lined homers over League Park's short right field wall to give the Cleveland Indians a 6 to 0 triumph.

The Cleveland southpaw, who turned in eighteen victories last season, was in top form. The only blows made against his awkward delivery were consecutive fifth-inning singles by Larry Rosenthal and Mike Kreevich with two men out.

The list of those approached to pick up some form of intimate information includes Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, Maxie Hirsch, Ben Jones, John Partridge, Earl Sande, George Odom and a few more who know their trade from hoof to saddle.

Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, who has known fifty years of race track experience, has two star entries in King Cole and Bold Irishman. But Sunny Jim is making no effort to raise over the end of any Derby limb.

"This next one is the most wide open Kentucky Derby I can remember," he said. "There may be no great three-year-olds on hand, but there will be more than a few good ones—above the average."

"I know, for example, that King Cole can run a mile in a hurry. I'll have to wait to find out how well he can do over the Derby route at a mile and a quarter."

"I also know that Bold Irishman can handle a mile and a half. The route won't bother him a bit. Whether he has the speed needed to beat this field is another guess. There are too many good ones who have a chance."

About Whirlaway
I asked Fitz what he thought of Ben Jones' faith in Warren Wright's Whirlaway, now working out at Keeneland.

"Whirlaway is a good horse," the veteran trainer said. "His main weakness is his erratic way of running in or out. He has speed and he can handle the distance. I think Ben Jones is handling his horse perfectly by giving him plenty of work and trying to develop right running habits. He might be handicapped by a big field, but so will most of us."

Maxie Hirsch—Dispute and Curious Coin
"It's too wide open for me," Maxie Hirsch said. "It ought to be a great scramble down the stretch. Has Dispute a good chance? Sure. He has already proved his class and he has been working well all spring at Columbia and here. I'll have to find out later how good he is at a mile and a quarter."

And don't forget Curious Coin. You might remember the race he won in Florida. I know Curious Coin is fast enough to run with any horse. It's just a matter of his liking the route. At Hialeah he was coming like the wind at a mile and a quarter and he had me worried in those last few pumps."

Both Earl Sande and George Odom had about the same testimony to offer—one of the toughest Derbies in history to nail on the head. Both wanted at least ten more days in which to digest future happenings.

Another Thought
John Partridge, another famous veteran trainer and owner, was more direct than most of the others.

The Spotlight by GRANTLAND RICE

(Released by North American Newspaper Alliance)

They're All Guessing
Locating the ancient needle in the equally ancient haystack is just as simple and easy as locating the next Derby winner in the bluegrass swades of Kentucky. I can't recall having seen before as many baffled expressions on the faces of so many able, veteran trainers when you bring up this argument. The same goes, of course, for the Pre-Kennedy.

The list of those approached to pick up some form of intimate information includes Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, Maxie Hirsch, Ben Jones, John Partridge, Earl Sande, George Odom and a few more who know their trade from hoof to saddle.

Detroit Tigers Lose Opening Game to Browns

Auker Holds American League Champions to Four Hits

ST. LOUIS, April 16 (AP)—The Champion Detroit Tigers and Pitcher Buck Newsom made their delayed start in the American League race today by losing, 8 to 1, to the St. Louis Browns, just as they did on opening day a year ago.

It was a good scrap between Bobo and Elden Auker, the Kansas submarine ball ace, until the eighth inning. Then the Browns broke that seat Newsom to the showers and netted the home towners seven runs.

Rudy York had tied the score 1-1 with a 425-foot home run in the seventh.

Auker, No. 1 hurler of the St. Louis staff, pitched to only thirty batters, three more than the absolute minimum. He allowed only three hits in addition to York's homer.

Newsom was in continual trouble. The Browns had men on base in every inning except the fourth, when Buck struck out the side.

New York Takes Second Straight From Brooklyn

Danning Drives in Winning Runs with Single in Fifth Inning

BROOKLYN, April 16 (AP)—On a combination of Harry Gumbert's steady six-hit pitching and defensive lapses by the Dodgers, the New York Giants made it two straight over their Brooklyn neighbors today by a score of 3 to 1.

The Dodgers were leading 1-0 and Kirby Higbe had retired the first two men to face him in the fifth when Gumbert singled and Johnny Rucker walked. Burgess Whitehead then drove a grounder at Pee Wee Reese, the Dodger shortstop fumbled the ball, and the bases were loaded. Harry Danning smacked the first pitch into center field, and two runs were in for the ball game.

Clerks and Merchants Reach Tentative Agreement

Clerks Will Vote On Acceptance This Morning

Joint Statement Is Issued by L. J. Smith, Labor Conciliator; Terms Are Not Made Public

A tentative agreement was reached at last night's conference of the representatives of the clerk's union and merchants which will be presented to the merchants and the membership of the clerks' organization for approval this morning.

Smith Issues Statement

The respective participants authorized L. J. Smith, United States Labor Department Conciliator, to release the statement announcing that the tentative agreement had been reached. The statement was:

"At a meeting held at the Fort Cumberland hotel last night between representatives of the Retail Clerks Industrial Protective Association, Local 654, L. J. Smith, U. S. conciliator, representatives of the Allegheny Trades Council and representatives of the merchants, a tentative agreement was reached which is to be submitted to the clerks and the merchants for their approval at meetings to be held this morning.

"If the agreement is approved it will result in a revival of former collective bargaining agreements existing between them for the last five years, with certain changes and modifications."

Clerks Meet Today

Last night's release, in effect a joint statement, was the only comment made in regard to the situation which it was indicated was about to be cleared up.

Smith declared that the meeting was "very constructive and harmonious."

The clerks are tentatively scheduled to meet this morning at 8:30 a. m. and the merchants at 9 a. m.

Freda Skelly Given Wrist Watch by Local Lions' Club

Miss Freda Skelly, an employee of McCrory's store, was presented a wrist watch for having sold the greatest number of tickets to the "Tattle Tales of 1941" Lions' club musical revue, at the regular weekly dinner meeting of the local club yesterday in the Central Y.M.C.A.

Miss Skelly sold sixty tickets for the show which recently was presented here. The watch was presented by Gilbert A. Rehbeck, secretary, and Paul A. Myers, second vice-president of the club.

William S. Scherer, first vice-president of the Downtown Baltimore Lions' club was a guest at yesterday's meeting and spoke on the welfare work being done by his organization.

William D. Timmons, third vice-president of the local club gave a talk on "Reactions to the Tattle Tales of 1941."

Two Replacements Are Rejected at Induction Station in Baltimore

Max Gibson, 421 Henderson avenue, and James William Lebeck, 526 North Mechanic street, were rejected at the induction station in Baltimore Monday.

They were among six replacements of Local Draft Board No. 2.

Anthony Catina, waiter hotel, order number 438, plumber, and John E. Bolden, Central Y. M. C. A., order number 548, News-Times advertising department, will replace the two rejected men. They will leave April 26 along with fifteen other draftees in the regular quota call.

Cumberland Agencies Asked To Aid In Drive To Aid Men in the Service

Request of New Organization Is Referred to the Community Chest

Request from Walter Hoving, of New York city, its president, for participation of Cumberland service agencies in the forthcoming national drive for the United Service Organizations, was received and discussed at the monthly meeting of the Salvation Army Citizens' Advisory Board yesterday at the Golden Gate tea room.

Because of the necessity for coordination, the request was referred to the Community Chest for advice. Plans are under way for the immediate launching of a $10,765,000 program of service to soldiers, sailors and defense personnel by the U. S. O., the funds for which will

EVANGELIST—The Rev. Ernest E. Muntzing, evangelist, of Harrisonburg, Va., is assisting the Rev. Vernon N. Shanholts, pastor, in conducting a two weeks' evangelistic meeting which began at the Wiley Ford Church of the Brethren Monday night and will continue through Sunday, April 27. The evangelist's message last evening was "Hindrances to Prayer" while tonight his subject will be "The Christian's Use of the Bible." L. W. Wotring directs congregational singing. Eight services begin at 7:30 o'clock and Sunday morning services at 11 o'clock.

Airport Measure, Other Local Bills Remain Unsigned

Associated Press Reports O'Connor Will Sign Next Batch April 23

Governor Herbert R. O'Connor signed 103 bills on Monday but the $100,000 Cumberland airport measure, the $200,000 sewer line bond bill and the $500,000 auxiliary water line bill were not among those to which the state's chief executive affixed his signature, according to the Associated Press.

Mayor Harry Irvine yesterday said that he was informed that the airport bill would be among those signed on Monday but reports from Annapolis disclosed that only one Allegheny county bill was signed, that being HB 157, which relates to the registration of voters in the town of Barton each year between the hours of 12:30 and 8:30 p. m. Irvine said that he was told that hearings will be held on any controversial measures that might come before the governor.

To Sign More April 23

According to the Associated Press the governor does not plan to sign any more bills until Wednesday, April 23, an indication that at least another week will be lost before actual work is started at the airport site in Wiley Ford.

Meanwhile Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, said that condemnation proceedings to obtain a parcel of land owned by Rufus Lamp, near Wiley Ford, for use in the airport construction, will be instituted within the next week.

Plans showing the land wanted by the city are being prepared by the city engineer's office. Condemnation proceedings will be handled for the city in the Mineral county court by Lester E. Reynolds, Keyser attorney. A bond covering the damage awards also must be filed.

Ten days after the court issues the order, the city may take possession. The court will name a five-man jury of inquiry, which will view the site and fix damages. The findings of this group can be appealed to a jury of twelve and to the court.

City Files Certificate

The city yesterday filed a certificate with the WPA showing it has secured possession of all the land necessary for the airport with the exception of the Lamp tract and rights-of-way to be furnished by the Western Maryland railway. The railway company has agreed and only formal action is necessary.

Will Solicit Gifts

These agencies are the Young Men's Christian Association, the National Catholic Community Service, the Salvation Army, the Jewish Welfare Board and the National Travelers' Aid Association.

The solicitation of gifts among individuals of large means and leading corporations will begin immediately. June 3 has been set as the date for opening the general campaign to solicit all citizens.

The agencies are planning service club facilities in 339 places adjacent to camps, naval stations and defense centers throughout the United States and its overseas bases. The Government will provide buildings, it was explained, and the S. O. will provide funds for their operation and the accompanying

FBI To Exhibit Spurious Coins In Hobby Show

Guns, Swords and Model Planes To Be Displayed Here April 21 to 26

Counterfeit bills and coins, collected by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in raids throughout the country, will be among the exhibits featured in the Hobby and Antique Show which will be held April 21 to 26 in Emmanuel Episcopal Parish House, Washington street, it was announced last night by the Western Maryland Coin Club sponsor of the first affair of its kind ever held here.

Various coins will be placed on display as well as spurious paper money denominations ranging from $1 to $100. The government exhibit which is being sent from Washington also includes pointers on how to distinguish false from genuine money.

Mayor To Show Kettles

Local exhibits will include copper kettles and old watches by Mayor Harry Irvine; bridges and spinning wheels of the Civil War era, by Edgar H. Reynolds, city councilman; and an elaborate collection of Indian arrowheads by W. R. Shaner, linotype operator of the Times and Allegheny Company.

William Bowen, of Maryland avenue, will place on exhibit at least one hundred guns; O. C. Hileman, gavel, book ends and other woodwork and Frank Lee Carl, scrapbooks of Cumberland.

Among the outstanding stamp collections to be displayed in the show are those contributed by Cyril Croft, Leo Downey, Virgil Powell and Howard B. Scharf.

Model Plane Exhibit

An Exchange Club exhibit will feature a dozen model airplanes which have been built by students of LaSalle, Cresaptown, Fort Hill and Allegheny high schools while the Western Maryland Amateur Radio Club will also exhibit as well as broadcast short wave messages.

Harry A. Manley will judge the exhibits and blue, red and gold ribbons will be awarded to winners of first, second and third places. Members of the sponsoring organization will not be eligible to compete for the awards.

Exhibits will be received at the parish house between the hours of 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. Monday, and must be called for between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. Saturday, April 26. All exhibits will be insured and police protection will be offered during the show.

Holmes H. Cessna, who is doing secretarial work for the show, stated that approximately eighty organizations and individuals will enter exhibits in the five-day show.

Cessna pointed out that the local coin club, which was the smallest in the country at the time, won first prize in the United States and Canada in 1939 for displays, exhibits, advertising and educational work.

Pastor Addresses Club

Twenty-seven members attended the regular monthly meeting of the Western Maryland Coin Club last night in the Central Y.M.C.A., where the Rev. Robert H. Parker, pastor of the Union Grove Circuit, Methodist church, gave a fifteen-minute talk on "Coins in Bible Times."

Sandwiches and refreshments were served.

Public Speaking Class Graduated

Fifteen Get Diplomas as Dale Carnegie Course Closes for Year

Diplomas were presented to fifteen men and women at a dinner meeting at the Algonquin hotel last night as the Dale Carnegie public speaking course conducted by Albert L. Rogers completed its 1940-41 term.

About twenty guests were on hand to witness the ceremonies and hear the graduates make brief addresses to show the progress made. The graduates, as they completed their 16-week course, automatically became members of the Club of Human Relations, which consists of alumni of the classes and which sponsors the Town Meeting of the Air over WTBO each Sunday.

One of the features of last night's program was a tribute paid to the late W. Russell Brewer, president of the Liberty Trust Company and a member of the class, by Charles A. Piper. Mr. Piper lauded Mr. Brewer, who died last month, as a public spirited citizen who place will be difficult to fill.

The graduates included Charles A. Piper, Harold R. Fletcher, Miss Loretta Hannon, Robert Kaplan, Marvin Kaplan, Miss Sarah Gross, Henry W. Price, Miss Regina M. McCulley, Wesley Taylor, Miss Mildred Twigg, Miles G. Thompson, Thomas E. Gilchrist, Dr. J. K. Rozum, Dr. Eugene Kesler and Clarence Shepherd.

Classes will be resumed in the fall.

Fort Hill To Hold Honors and Awards Dinner on May 9

Fort Hill high school will hold its third annual honors and awards dinner, Friday, May 9, at 6:30 p. m. in the school cafeteria, it was announced yesterday by Victor D. Heisey, principal.

Approximately 175 students who have performed conspicuous service to the school in dramatics, music, stage work, athletics, debate and declamation in the past year will be honored.

Miss Nellie S. Willison, head of the school's English department, will act as toastmistress, and the principal speaker will be William A. Gunter, president of the Allegheny County Board of Education.

The committee on arrangements comprises Leon B. Disinger, chairman, Miss Beatrice Lowe, Miss Dorothy Seebree, Miss Viola Hudson and Harold Horn.

Anti-Communist Association Here Receives Charter

Will Promote Patriotism and Encourage Demonstrations of Respect

The Anti-Communist Association of America, organized in Cumberland last summer, yesterday acquired a certificate of incorporation in circuit court.

Since the organization of the body to combat Communism, Fascism and Nazism, similar organizations have been formed in Dayton and Lima, O., according to the Rev. Charles H. Wakeman, a director.

Called last night, the Rev. Mr. Wakeman admitted members of the organization had been "keeping it quiet" and hadn't gone out of the way to secure publicity.

Asked if he was of the opinion there was any considerable Communist element in Cumberland, the Rev. Mr. Wakeman replied, "you'd be surprised."

Other directors of the Anti-Communist organization are Michael Strato, Hagerstown; and George Ruhl, Sr., 544 North Mechanic street, who is resident agent for the association.

As set forth in the articles of incorporation, the association is designed to "educate the people against Communism, Nazism and Fascism; to protect freedom of speech; freedom of worship; to foster the right to private ownership of property; to bring the employer and employee closer together; to uphold the Constitution; and to make an honest effort to keep the United States free from foreign propaganda."

A representative of the association did not reveal how many members are associated with the Anti-Communist organization. It was revealed that the organization had been developing rapidly and that an unusually strong chapter had been organized in Lima, a prominent member of the Lima chapter was a former mayor of the city, the Rev. Mr. Wakeman said.

It was also announced that Pvt. First Class Harry F. Brode was made company mechanic and given a fourth class specialist rating. Pvt. First Class Arlie J. Lease was rated from fifth class to fourth class specialist while Pvt. First Class Donald Prantz was rated fifth class specialist as a chauffeur.

Schools in clerical work and Spanish are being held in the evenings at Fort George Meade for the benefit of those wishing to take advantage of them.

According to word from Brig. Gen. Amos W. Woodcock, Company G is rated as one of the best.

Trades licenses for the new year have gone on sale in the clerk of court's office, Robert Jackson announced yesterday. These licenses are due May 1.

The licenses cover trades, brokers, cigarette, billiard tables, garages, laundries, saloons, moving picture theaters, cleaning, dyeing, pressing, restaurants and soda fountains. Jackson said.

James Smith, Ridgeley railroad man, went to court yesterday over an upper plate he said didn't fit worth a nickel and on the witness stand gave the jury a demonstration of just what he meant.

Smith said he was fitted by Dr. O. Ray Hedrick, Cumberland, and paid him $28. The teeth did not give satisfaction, and he went back to see his dentist several times, but didn't get anywhere, he said.

Finally, one day Smith declared Hedrick told him "to get out of my office and never come back." Smith did get out, but went to see a lawyer.

Hedrick said he would like to see Smith's pay checks. Elmer Gover, Smith's attorney, offered to let the case rest on this one point since he indicated Smith always made an "X" on the checks.

Plan To Change Bonding of Magistrates Found Illegal, Rescinded

Declaring he had no ax to grind, Simeon W. Green, president of the board of county commissioners, last night declared that the only motive that prompted him to look into the possibility of a blanket bond for ten trial magistrates was the possibility of saving the taxpayers several hundred dollars.

The board chairman said he looked into this possibility, discovered it was not a legal procedure and then advised the magistrates that they were to execute their own bonds as usual.

"I will say this," Green declared, "I am taking exception to one insurance man having eight of the ten bonds last year. I feel that they should be distributed around more equally. There are insurance men in the various towns where magistrates hold court as well as in the city of Cumberland. Some of these agents should have the privilege of this insurance instead of one man."

Originally, Green said, he authorized James Stevenson, clerk of the board, to advise the magistrates that the possibility of a blanket bond was being investigated and for them to await more information.

Meanwhile, Thomas F. Conlon, Cumberland insurance man, informed him that any such procedure would be illegal, Green said.

The board chairman said he then referred the matter to Walter C. Capper, board attorney, and asked for an opinion. Capper, after an investigation, stated that he did not believe blanket bonding would be legal since each magistrate has to be listed on his own bond, Green said.

Green said he then advised Stevenson to inform the magistrates that they should execute their own surety as usual.

Expert Rifleman Of Company G To Get Special Gift

Pvt. George Atkinson Will Receive Award from Col. D. J. Markey

Pvt. George Atkinson, of Company G, Cumberland, was the only automatic rifleman to qualify as expert in the One Hundred and Fifteenth Infantry, according to information received here yesterday from Fort George G. Meade.

In recognition of his fine performance with a Garand automatic, Pvt. Atkinson will receive a personal gift from Col. D. John Markey, regimental commander.

Other Company G men qualifying with high scores were Pvt. First Class Edwin Hopwood, William Lewis, Harold Hollis, William Norwood and Harry F. Brode. The tests were supervised by Sgt. Edwin Woods and Corp. Harry Newhouse.

On the pistol range, Sgt. Harold A. Robertson qualified with a high score of 91.33 per cent. Next in line were First Sgt. Frank Hinz, 90; Corp. Abraham Gurson, 85.67; Pvt. First Class Blaise C. Gallimore, 79; and Pvt. First Class George S. Bomboy, 72.67 per cent.

It was also announced that Pvt. First Class Harry F. Brode was made company mechanic and given a fourth class specialist rating. Pvt. First Class Arlie J. Lease was rated from fifth class to fourth class specialist while Pvt. First Class Donald Prantz was rated fifth class specialist as a chauffeur.

State University Glee Club Pleases In Concerts Here

3,300 Pupils Hear Programs of College Park Group in High Schools

The University of Maryland Men's Glee Club, better known throughout the state as "Maryland's Ambassadors of Good Will," presented two pleasing concerts in Cumberland yesterday afternoon and after remaining here overnight the singers and their director, Harlan Randall, will go to Garrett county today to present programs at Accident and Oakland high schools.

Cumberland was the second stop of a four-day tour of Western Maryland by the singers, who yesterday were heard by approximately 3,300 pupils at Fort Hill and Allegheny high schools. Traveling in a forty-passenger bus, the glee club, which is a member of the Associated Glee Clubs of America, presented concerts Tuesday at Frederick and Middleton high schools.

Following the programs today in Accident at 2 p. m. and Oakland at 8:30 p. m., the College Parkers will appear at Hagerstown high school tomorrow before returning to the college on Saturday.

One thousand pupils assembled at the Allegheny high school auditorium and approximately 700 in the junior high school department heard the program broadcast over the public address system in nineteen rooms, Ralph R. Webster, principal, said.

Fort Hill high school, first stop in Cumberland for the singers, welcomed the visitors with a turnout of 1,600 boys and girls, who packed the auditorium for the thirty-five minute program. The Glee club had lunch at the Fort Hill cafeteria before its initial program here.

Numbers presented at the local schools included "Sons of Old Maryland," "Pale in the Amber West," "Invictus," "Ave Maria," "Sing Me a Chanley," "What Shall We Do," "The Rosary," "Deep River," "Jungle Land" and "God Bless America," was the closing selection.

"Eight Bells" was presented by the club's quartet.

The Maryland Glee Club, reorganized in 1935 under its present director, entertained over 25,000 persons last year and concluded a trip to New York to sing in Memorial Day services at the World's fair. In 1936 the club participated in the annual Christmas tree lighting ceremony by President Roosevelt on the White House grounds and broadcast a concert over three major radio chains.

LaVale Driver Is Acquitted on Two Motor Law Charges

Robert T. Weaver Was Accused of Drunken and Reckless Driving

Robert T. Weaver, 33, of LaVale, was acquitted yesterday in trial magistrates court on charges of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor or drug and of reckless driving.

Weaver, who was arrested last Monday night following an accident, a fire and a fracas at an Oldtown road service station, pleaded not guilty to both charges and was not required to testify. He was represented by Clarence Shuter, attorney.

State police reported Weaver's car crashed against a pump at the gas station of Douglas Parker, of RFD 4. The pump was demolished, starting a fire that damaged the canopy of the station.

Officers also said they were told Weaver drove off after the crash, but returned to the scene two hours later and started a dispute with Parker. After this Weaver left again, they added.

According to police, Weaver claimed his twelve-year old daughter, while "fooling" with the gear shift, caused the car to run into the pump. He was arrested by Corp. John H. Doud three hours after the crash.

Witnesses for the state, besides Parker, were Clara and Emily Parker, and August Robinson, all of RFD 4. Helena and Mildred McCullough, of Rawlings; P. J. Forbeck, 532 Nesscity street; James Bryson, 538 North Centre street; and Richard C. Shaw, 613 Williams street, testified in Weaver's behalf. Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce Jr. presided at the hearing.

Chatter Chatter readers, especially parents, should be interested in a statement recently made by Dr. Richard C. Leonard, chief of the division of oral hygiene of the Maryland State Department of Health.

Dr. Leonard points to recent numerous news items on the dental conditions found among draftees when they come up for physical examinations as emphasizing the need for early and regular dental care — both at home and under professional supervision — of children today.

"The deplorable mouth conditions resulting in the rejection of so many draftees may be attributed in large part to their failure to avail themselves of dental care, even when properly advised, when they—the draftees—were children," Dr. Leonard said.

"Another probable factor is the period of economic depression during which a great deal of needed preventive dental service was allowed to go unattended.

"When most of the present draftees were of elementary school age there was little or no development of the present day school dental health program. These programs, still not as universal as they should be, aim at the double goal of educating the child in the importance of good teeth and of seeing that needed care is received either from a family dentist or in school dental clinics. By the first of these two aims it is hoped that children will be led to continue regular dental care in their later years.

"Had the draftees had the initial care that results from this school program the ill effects of the depression period would probably not have been so markedly reflected in the present condition of their teeth.

"Every dental defect that resulted in the loss of a prospective draftee's tooth had a small beginning. Had it been noted early, corrected, and subsequent defects found early and corrected, the number of unnecessarily extracted teeth would have been materially reduced with, in turn, reduction in the number of draft rejections.

"There is no cure for dental decay once it is started, but prompt corrective service by a dentist. It is believed that the efforts now being made to accustom the children to early and regular dental care will prevent the development of conditions similar to those that are now influencing the rejection of draftees. If it does this it will also result in the improved health of our adult population whether or not a national emergency is faced.

"And good teeth in healthy bodies are as essential in normal as in emergency periods," Dr. Leonard concluded.

The governor originally planned to let State Central committees select candidates before setting the election date. As committee have not done so he plans to let the proclamation in the near future. Under law, the governor must give 20-day notice before election.

In Baltimore today, Truman Cash, State Democratic Committee chairman, said he expected to call a Central committee meeting formally name a candidate "ab May 1."

Cash said Alton Y. Benni, chairman of the Frederick County Democratic Committee, had advised him that he had called a county wide meeting for April 26.

G.O.P. to Ratify Stewart's Select "I feel that the district invalid should have an opportunity choose its own candidate," Cc said.

W. David Tighman, Jr., chair of the Republican State Cent Committee, said that his group would meet in Baltimore ten days after the issuance of the gubernatorial proclamation to formally ratify the nomination of A. Chas. Stewart of Frostburg.

Stewart was named last night a caucus of G.O.P. committees the five Western Maryland count of the Sixth District.

Elementary school teachers of A legany county will hold a dinner meeting Thursday, May 1, at 6 p. m. at the Alt Ghan Shrine Country Club, Baltimore pike.

Invitations have been sent out the 234 teachers of grades one six, inclusive, to attend the affair. A guest speaker will be announce within the next few days.

trip to the capital, 165 Juni patrolmen and committee of L men comprised the delegation. L year, the club transported abo 383 patrolmen, the Fort Hill high school band and a committee fifteen. A total of 15,000 patrolmen participated in the parade in Washington.

From year to year the parade has grown to the extent that national headquarters has been requested that only those participating in active schoolboy patrol will be permitted to take part. It local club, Rockwell said, finds it is necessary to restrict anyone other than active patrolmen, band and committeemen to make a trip this year on the special train.

Last year, Rockwell explained members of the families of patrolmen were permitted to make the trip on the special train but this will be taboo next month. H (Continued on Page 15, Col. 4)

W. Preston Lane May Be "Drafted" By Democrats

Movement Grows To Make Him Party's Candidate for Congress

HAGERSTOWN, Md., April 16.—A movement to "draft" W. Preston Lane, Jr., Democratic national committeeman, as his nominee for Maryland's Sixth district Congressional vacancy dropped today in the face of Lane's previously announced refusal to accept the nomination.
